

Questions asked during the Alaska SAT School Day Webinar, Dec. 8.

If our SAT test supervisor is the parent of an 11th grader planning to take the SAT, is this allowable as long as they are not in the same room?

No. The SAT is a secure test no immediate relative or someone who serves in the test prep industry can supervise the SAT, AP, or PSAT.

Can students use the practice tools before they register for the SAT's?

Yes. Not only are the free online tools available, but also for those taking the SAT School Day, they receive for one year access to the online prep course created by the authors of the test.

I have not received that welcome kit. Who do I contact?

Denise Zavaleta 855-769-3122 Email: Alaskaschoolday@collegeboard.org

I see that the SAT Online Course costs $69.95. Is this course free for Fairbanks students who will be taking the SAT at school?

Yes! For SAT School Day only.

Is the Test Center Intake Form the same as the Test Center Master Form?

No, the Test Center Intake Form provides the chance to indicate who is the principal, testing coordinator, registration, and SAT online course, so we know to whom to send information. The Test Center Master form validates the contact information for the school so materials will be shipped to the appropriate person.

Can you add the link to the SAT School Day website that was on a previous slide to this chat?

Is the staff training the same as the one for those of us who already serve as national test centers?

While the training is similar there are differences and so one still needs to take the training.

Did you say we can use our existing Test Center Supervisor account if we have been doing national testing?

Yes, as long as you are listed as coordinator on the SAT intake form.

Do accommodations also apply to ELL students?

No. As a college admission test which indicates a students' ability to succeed in English speaking schools, accommodations for students with limited English are not provided.

Is there an absolute test start time? If so where do we find it in the test day guide?

Most schools start by 8 am. Since the test is 3 hours and 45 minutes, it's important to start early, as materials must be returned the same day as the test. UPS will pick up on your schedule.
